PEACE AND RECONSTRUCTION.

The blessings of a permanent and enduring Peace seems to have been at last secured to our country. Every where throughout the breadth of the United States, are the laws obeyed, the Union reverenced, and the flag acknowledged. After four years of a bitter war, has come a perfect calm, and the Rebel and the Yankee sit down in friendship with one another. Those who lately grasped the hot gun barrel, now smoke quietly the calumet of peace, and talk pleasantly enough over the memories of the past. The intercourse between the soldier and the citizen has done much good. It has shown the citizen that his enemy after all is a man very much like himself, given to truth and honor and exercising magnanimity and benevolence, in the hour of his great triumph. Many friendships have thus been formed which will last forever, a monument to the folly of rebellion and the cruelty of war. All that is wanted, for the people to understand each other is this intercourse.—Every acquaintance made by an officer of the United States army with our people, is but another argument in favor of the Union. They behave so well and are so kind, that they cannot help making friends even among those in whose hearts slumber the embers of Rebellion.

Their Surgeons and nurses in the Hospital are also very kind and attentive to the sick and wounded of the late Confederate army. It is a touching sight to see—and can be seen at any hour at the Hospital—The soldier in gray depending for his very bread, upon the kind officer of the soldier in blue. One of the union soldiers, named Bassett, who had been Ward Master of the Confederate ward, for some time, died yesterday of disease contracted in administering to our sick and wounded. He was kind and efficient, and his unfortunate death is as sincerely regretted by the Confederates as by his comrades. Did we have the means we would have him burried with extra care and place upon his tombstone the inscription:—Marcelus Bassett, Co. 'A.' 23rd Michigan, soldier of the Union army, who died from disease contracted whilst ministering to the sick and wounded of the late Confederate army—"a noble soldier in a noble cause."

At the funeral of Junius A. Fox, Esq., on Monday, passed along silently and sadly through the streets, we noticed among those who escorted his body to the grave, the Union officer walking in brotherly love with the man who lately wore a sword in the rebel cause. But why particularize incidents, when these things all speak to us that we are one people in thought, fact and sentiment, and that it was a fearful thing to decide our quarrel with arms;—fearful is the responsibility of those who were instrumental in producing this war, and who succeeded in inflaming the heart, and maddening the mind of those who were destined to be brothers, citizens and coinhertors of this great Republic.

But peace has come again, and the great work of reconstructing, out of the chaotic remnants of government left by the war is rapidly going on,—especially in North Carolina. Here Gov. Holden is working vigorously and energetically for the public good, and soon the military will be at home, and the citizen will be enjoying his civil rights, and appreciating and experiencing once more the liberty, of the Republican form Government.

PAYING DEBTS.

About a year after the commencement of the war and when Confederate money had become rather abundant, many of our people who had notes and other debts outstanding against them, conceived the happy idea that then was a good time to pay them off. Money was so plenty and so easily obtained—so cheap, in other words—that some of them fairly rubbed their hands together with joy to think how easily they could discharge their old debts; and speedily availed themselves of the then most propitious opportunity to relieve themselves from what, under ordinary circumstances of the monetary affairs of the country, would not have been near so easy or so cheap. The holders of these notes were obliged to accept the proffered Confed. or incur the reproach of discrediting the Government, which was interpreted as an injury inflicted upon the cause of the South.

Now that this is all past and gone, there are few, we presume, who will for a moment dissent to the proposition that it was more sharp than honest in debtors to take advantage of that time to pay their debts; because the debts they were thus discharging were made in reference to a widely different state of monetary affairs, and the payment of them in a cheap currency was simply defrauding the creditor by the amount of the difference between the currency employed and that in reference to which the debt was originaly made.

But it was not in relation to this point alone we wish to speak at present. It is in reference to the paymen' of debts now: the same spirit of wrong-doing we know to have been recently manifested, as, where a man owes a debt and has the money and could pay his creditor, but will not do so because he wants to go into business again and needs all the capital he can muster to set him up. It is a very obtuse intellect, not to mention moral darkness of sense, that unfits a man to perceive that his first duty is to his creditor. That creditor may be in a much worse condition than himself: he may be actually suffering for the want of the money due him, and yet his debtor blandly tells him, my friend I will certainly pay you; will pay you as soon as I can; but I am very anxious to put myself in a position to make money now, and therefore cannot settle your claim at this time.

Surely, surely, this is a little worse than unadulterated selfishness. It is dishonest. A man had just as well thrust his hand in his neighbors, pocket and haul out his purse, and holding it up before his astonished eyes inform him that it is the very thing he needs—that he wanted to go into business to make money, and the contents of that purse would just answer the purpose.

There is no difference, in a moral sense, between withholding what is due, when it is in one's power to pay, and forcibly taking what belongs to another. The plea of "wanting to go into business" is like adding insult to injury, it so utterly worthless as a reason to justify the refusal to do right.

The Execution in Washington.

The four conspirators, Mrs. Surratt, Payne, Atzerott and Harold were executed in Washington according to the finding of the Military Tribunal, and thus have the conspirators who struck at the foremost man of all this world met the punishment of their stupendous crime. We see the papers are canvassing the propriety or legality of the sentence. This is all wrong, the only question that should be asked is the sentence just?—if the answer be in the affirmative, well and good—let the guilty suffer. We are satisfied, the finding of the Court-marshal in their case was just, and in the light of a speedy punishment for their great crime a Military Tribunal was justified in its action. We do not like however the hanging of Mrs. Surratt, because she was a woman, and would have been pleased to have seen the sentence commuted to confinement for life.

GENERAL NEWS.

EXECUTION OF THE CONSPIRATORS.

Petersburg, July 10th, 1865.

The Northern papers received here to-day are are filled with descriptions of the execution of the conspirators.

All of the prisoners had spiritual counsel with them during the whole of Thursday night and Friday morning up to the time of execution, and without exception were benefited by it.—They all exhibited a great deal of emotion and appeared very contrite. Mrs. Surratt suffered from nervous spasms and her cries during the night were heart-rending.

Efforts for Pardon.

Miss Surratt, herself, made the most strenuous efforts to obtain a pardon for her mother. Failing in this she, aided by her counsel, appealed for a postponement of the execution. Her friends did everything in their power to assist her. Her efforts were almost superhuman. All day Thursday she visited first one official and then another, and her appeals for mercy were distressing. The Government was firm in its decision and withstood the influence brought to bear upon it.

A Confession.

A short time previous to the execution Payne, Atzerott and Harold, each made a confession in which they admitted their complicity, and freely developed the existence of a plot as extensive as the officers of the Government had surmised.

Mrs. Surratt.

Up to the last moment Mrs. Surratt proclaimed her innocence, and repeatedly stated that she was as clear of complicity with the murder of the President as Mrs. Lincoln herself. She betrayed the utmost agitation.

The Final Scene.

When the prisoners were brought out of their cells, and conducted to the scaffold Mrs. Surratt continued to betray the greatest nervousness. It was with difficulty that she could stand on the platform, and repeatedly asked the attendants not to let her fall. Almost her last words were "please don't let me fall!" When the rope was adjusted her lips moved as if in prayer. She and Atzerott died easy—almost without a struggle; Payne and Harold struggled violently, and their contortions were fearful to behold.

After life had been pronounced extinct the bodies were cut down and given to their friends with the exception of Payn's which was disposed of by the Government, as no one called for it.

The execution took place at precisely ten minutes past one.

O'Laughlin, Dr. Mudd, Arnold and Spangler have been sent to the Albany Penitentiary.

Among the applications for pardon, on the 6th, were Messrs. Ash, Ramsay and McDowell, late members of the Confederate Gongress. One hundred and thirteen pardons were granted North Carolienians coming within the 20,000 exception.

Generals Schofield, Wallace, Sickles, Kilpatrick, Devide, Rantz and Robinson were present at a reunion of the officers of the army of Tennessee on the 4th, together with a number of inferior officers. Dinner was had, and Col. Hilyer presided. The whole affair passed off pleasantly and agreeably.

Gen. Cox has been ordered to retain command of North Carolina until the return of General Schofield.

A splendid banquet was given to Gen. Sherman, at the Masonic Temple, Louisville, Ky., Monday night, the 3d. The General made an address, and was followed by other distinguished orators.

Having become post-master at Chattanooga, a member of the Tennessee House of Representatives and a candidate for Congress, Mr. J. R. Hood has ceased to edit the Chattanooga Gazette.

As the President's car reached Baltimore from Gettysburg, on the evening of the Fourth, it ran on a misplaced switch and collided with a freight train standing in the depot. The Chilian Minister and C. J. Halpine were seriously, and several others more or less injured.

There is the best authority for contradicting the report that Charles J. Faulkner, of Virginia, has been pardoned by the President, who has not as yet acted in the case. Therefore all that has been published in this matter prematurely.

Gen. Grant and staff have returned to Washington City from Albany.

Chief Justice Chase and daughter, arrived at the St. Nicholas, New York, on the 5th. He left for Rhode Island next day.

And order just issued by the War Department abolishes the whisky ration to the army, and hereafter no liquor of any kind will be issued to soldiers, except by the medical department. This was done upon the recommendation of the Commissary General and the Surgeon General.

The army of the Potomac has been reorganized by order of Gen. Meade, and divided into three divisions, commanded by Major-General G. W. Getty, Brevet Major Gen. G. W. Mort and Brevet Major Gen R. B. Ayres. The whole to be under command of Major Gen. H. G. Wright, late of the 6th corps.

John R. Clanahan fell from a window in the Gayeso House, in Memphis, recently, and was instantly killed. Mr. Callahan was widely known as one of the editors of the Memphis Appeal.

Northern correspondents state that the South Carolina Railroad has been turned over to the control of its directors. They also say that active preparations are being made to repair the same, both to Columbia as well as to Augusta.

The State prisoners at Fortress Monroe are in good health with the exception of Clay. Both Davis and Mitchel are reported by their physicians to be in better condition physically than when they first entered the fort

There are nine hundred applicants for the position of Postmaster at Raleigh.

WRITTEN FOR THE UNION BANNER.

There is a sentiment within
The breast of every man,
That tells him he ought not to live,
Unto himself alone.
But seek for him a beautious maid
In all her charms, adorn'd
With grace, simplicity, and truth,
And love to cheer his home.
Shall I this sentiment subdue
And spurn it from my breast?
Shall I to it prove so untrue
With something else be blest?
No; let all else depart from me,
Celibacy its charms,
Yes, go, I bid it be free—
Be free with all its harms.
But let me seek the 'witching smiles
Of a damsel young and true,
Who with her pleasant song beguiles
The hours that move so slow.
I'll seek her from among the girls
(Of Carolina's hills,)
Whose hazel eyes and auburn curls
My choicest fancy fills,
And when I find her, I will say
To her: My pretty maid
Will you accept this hand of mine,
Will you become my bride?
I hope she'll say yes, dear sir, yes
I will become your bride.

MYSTERIOUS.

Through the kindness of a friend, we have received the following sketch, relative to the settlement of Salisbury, which will be of interest to our citizens.

Rowan—Salisbury—Face of the country—Indian Traces—Coydill—John Dunn.

The County of Rowan was taken from Anson in 1753, and was named after Robert Rowan, a member of the council. The first settlers near Salisbury were Paul Bifle and John Whitesides, on Grant's Creek to the north; John Dunn, John Gardiner, Alexander Douglas and James Donglas on Crane Creek to the south of Salisbury. They settled in 1751. Mathew Locke, Francis Locke, John Brandon, Alexander Cathey and James Graham to the west, on the upper part of Grant's Creek to the north of Salisbury, before 1751.

The first mills on Grant's Creek were built by John Whitesides near its mouth It is now owned by John I. Shaver.—Hugh Parker built the mill above, devised it to Thomas, William and John Frohock, and Spruce McCoy afterwards purchased. Grant's Creek took its name from a Mr. Grant, who settled near the head of the creek.

Crane Creek took its name from the great number of Cranes that came from the sand hills during the time of whortleberries, which abounded in the glades in this creek.

James Carter and Hugh Foster owned the land where Salisbury was established and it was by their influence the Court House was established at Salisbury. An effort was made to establish the Court House to the west of that place about two miles.

Salisbury.—Elias Brock and John Whitesides built the first Court House and Jail in Salisbury, on the ground where those buildings now stand. They were the first men that were put in the Jail after it was built. They were put in for debt. First settlers in Salisbury were Thomas Dugan, James Heggin and James Bowers.

Face of the Country.—The country was covered with pea vine, grass and cane. It had the appearance of the richest country. There were the buffalo, bears, &c., in the neighborhood.

Hunting Grounds.—This country was the hunting grounds of the Catawbas.

Indian Traces.—These generally run in the glades near the water courses, when they led in the right direction; thence through glades on the tops of ridges.

Captain —— Cogdill.—He was appointed Clerk of Anson County Court. He came from the lower counties near Edenton, was a lawyer and had John Dunn as a deputy Clerk.

John Dunn.—He was an Irishman, and educated for a Roman priest. He left Ireland suddenly in consequence of some fracas, in which he was engaged, went on board a privateer and came to America. He married Mary Ried on Reid's creek, on the Yadkin in Rowan, and made shoes and kept school. He studied law and removed to Salisbury, where he followed his profession with great success. He married a second wife, Betsy Howard, then a third, Frank Potts, in Lincoln. All his children were by the first wife.—He was promoted to the rank of Col. of the militia; but when the Indian war broke out and the militia were to march against the Cherokees in 1760, he removed to the Cheraws and remained there two years, until the troubles were over.

When the revolution commenced he was suspected of being rather lukewarm, or inclining to the side of the disaffected. He was apprehended and taken a prisoner to South Carolina. At the same time a lawyer in Salisbury named Benjamin Boot Boothe, was apprehended and taken away with him. He (Boothe) was an Englishman.

Col. Dunn commanded the regiment from Rowan, that went to Hillsborough to protect the Court from the Regulators."

For a more extensive account of John Dunn's conduct and character, see "Wheeler's Sketches," ch. 67.—Rowan County. The foregoing statements ought to have been incorporated in the sketch of that County. But as a second edition of that work may be expected, or some other person will write our history, we confidently trust these "Memoranda" will be useful.

LOCAL.

THE TABLEAUX.

The Tableaux for the benefit of returning Confederates at the Town Hall last night was largely patronized if we can judge by the number of tickets sold on the streets during the day. Among the most liberal patrons were the officers and soldiers of the Union army who took this means to show their appreciation of their late brave enemies—now their friends and fellow-citizens. They exclaim with Col. Dumas: It is astonishing how much we love a man after we have fought with him.

NEW COMERS.

We had a new arrival yesterday. The gallant 128th Indiana Volunteers came here yesterday under the command of Col. Packer. They will relieve the regiments already here and have yet some weary months to serve.

The Soda fountain of Messrs. Perkins & Barrows is sputtering all day as the throng of beverage drinkers press in and call for their Vanilla and Lemon. The stock of goods of this enterprising young firm is very extensive and their prices are of the most liberal character.

Mrs. William H. Oliver, Commission Merchants, Newbern, report they have this day effected sales of several lots of Cotton at twenty-nine cents.

The $20,000 Clause.—A late Northern paper says:

"We learn from good authority that there will be soon issued by the President a new Proclamation, modifying that of the 29th May. In this proclamation it will be provided that in Virginia, especially, and probably in all the States South, the $20,000 exception be abolished, except in cases where proceedings against the property of individuals have been instituted, or where lands have been or are now occupied by the Federal authorities, under the act concerning abandoned lands. It is found that notwithstanding the several good reasons which moved the President to the adoption of the twenty thousand dollar exception, there are as many equally potent why that clause in the proclamation should be abolished."

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 93.

Mayors and commissioners having been appointed by his Excellency Governor Holden, for the towns of Wilmington, New Berne, Washington, Beaufort, Salisbury, Greensboro', Greenville, Warrenton, Graham, Fayetteville, Louisburg, Winston, Charlotte, Wilson, Lincolnton, Hillsboro', and Oxford, the troops now stationed within the limits of said towns for the preservation of order, will be withdrawn from said towns respectively, so soon as the Mayors thereof shall declare their readiness to undertake the government of the same; sufficient force however will be retained for guards for public stores and other public property, and for examination of railroad trains at the stations.

Commanding Officers, will give on request of the Mayors of towns, all necessary assistance for the preservation of order, and will see that all lawful ordinances and rules of the towns are respected by the troops of their commands.

To guard against misapprehension, which seems still to exist in the minds of some, in regard to the legal condition of freedmen, all concerned are informed that the making of ordinances or other municipal regulations, containing provisions in violation of the equality of the right of the races to personal liberty, or practices on the part of Mayors or municipal agents in violation of such right, will necessitate the resumption of exclusive military control of any city or village in which such right is so disregarded. All laws or regulations, at any time heretofore in force in such towns, restricting the personal liberty of blacks, and not equally applicable to whites, are void.

The foregoing will apply to all cities or villages not hereinbefore named, and for which municipal officers have been or may hereafter be appointed.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY

NORTH CAROLINA ADVERTISER.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE ESTABLISHED in the City of Raleigh, an Agency for the purpose of buying and selling Real Estate in North Carolina. In connection therewith, and as auxiliary thereto, they will publish a double sheet twenty-four column weekly newspaper, wherein will be advertised free of cost, all lands offered for sale through their agency, and which will be devoted to the dissemination of information concerning the agricultural, mineral, manufacturing, and other resources of the State. By means of competent Agents in every County they will show the present advancement and special capabilities for future development of each.

It will be found, on investigation, that no State in the Union can present such a combination of advantages as North Carolina. Situated midway between the colder regions of the North and the more tropical climes of the South, its lands stretching from the sea coast to the mountains, yield bountiful returns of cotton, tobacco, rice, grain, fruits, pasturage, grapes and other products, while in its bosom lie rich mines of gold and iron, copper, lead, coal, and other minerals, its rivers afford water power sufficient for the most extensive factories, and in its forests are boundless supplies of naval stores, timber and material for tanning. Under the recent change in the system of labor, it becomes the interest of proprietors to part with a portion of their real estate, and it is the object of this enterprise, through agencies in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and other chief cities, to bring these abundant resources of the State to the notice of men of energy and capital, to get together the seller and the buyer, and to aid in starting North Carolina in a career of prosperity heretofore unknown.

The ADVERTISER will be furnished free of charge to all customers, and to others at one dollar per annum. The first number will be issued by the 1st of July, or sooner, if the type and necessary material already ordered, can be procured from New York before that time. Those desirous to advertise in the first number will please communicate to the undersigned at once. Moderate commissions will be charged where sales are made.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVING BEEN appointed Public Treasurer of North Carolina, by W. W. were the first men that were put in the Jail after it was built. They were put in for debt. First settlers in Salisbury were Thomas Dugan, James Heggin and James Bowers.

Face of the Country.—The country was covered with pea vine, grass and cane. It had the appearance of the richest country. There were the buffalo, bears, &c., in the neighborhood.

Hunting Grounds.—This country was the hunting grounds of the Catawbas.

Indian Traces.—These generally run in the glades near the water courses, when they led in the right direction; thence through glades on the tops of ridges.

Captain —— Cogdill.—He was appointed Clerk of Anson County Court. He came from the lower counties near Edenton, was a lawyer and had John Dunn as a deputy Clerk.

John Dunn.—He was an Irishman, and educated for a Roman priest. He left Ireland suddenly in consequence of some fracas, in which he was engaged, went on board a privateer and came to America. He married Mary Ried on Reid's creek, on the Yadkin in Rowan, and made shoes and kept school. He studied law and removed to Salisbury, where he followed his profession with great success. He married a second wife, Betsy Howard, then a third, Frank Potts, in Lincoln. All his children were by the first wife.—He was promoted to the rank of Col. of the militia; but when the Indian war broke out and the militia were to march against the Cherokees in 1760, he removed to the Cherawa and remained there two years, until the troubles were over.

When the revolution commenced he was suspected of being rather lukewarm, or inclining to the side of the disaffected. He was apprehended and taken a prisoner to South Carolina. At the same time a lawyer in Salisbury named Benjamin Boot Boothe, was apprehended and taken away with him. He (Boothe) was an Englishman.

Col. Dunn commanded the regiment from Rowan, that went to Hillsborough to protect the Court from the Regulators."

For a more extensive account of John Dunn's conduct and character, see "Wheeler's Sketches," ch. 67.—Rowan County. The foregoing statements ought to have been incorporated in the sketch of that County. But as a second edition of that work may be expected, or some other person will write our history, we confidently trust these "Memoranda" will be useful.

LOCAL.

THE TABLEAUX.

The Tableaux for the benefit of returning Confederates at the Town Hall last night was largely patronized if we can judge by the number of tickets sold on the streets during the day. Among the most liberal patrons were the officers and soldiers of the Union army who took this means to show their appreciation of their late brave enemies—now their friends and fellow-citizens. They exclaim with Col. Dumas: It is astonishing how much we love a man after we have fought with him.

NEW COMERS.

We had a new arrival yesterday. The gallant 128th Indiana Volunteers came here yesterday under the command of Col. Packer. They will relieve the regiments already here and have yet some weary months to serve.

The Soda Fountain.

The Soda fountain of Messrs. Perkins & Barrows is sputtering all day as the throng of beverage drinkers press in and call for their Vanilla and Lemon. The stock of goods of this enterprising young firm is very extensive and their prices are of the most liberal character.

THE $20,000 CLAUSE.—A late Northern paper says:

"We learn from good authority that there will be soon issued by the President a new Proclamation, modifying that of the 29th May. In this proclamation it will be provided that in Virginia, especially, and probably in all the States South, the $20,000 exception be abolished, except in cases where proceedings against the property of individuals have been instituted, or where lands have been or are now occupied by the Federal authorities, under the act concerning abandoned lands. It is found that notwithstanding the several good reasons which moved the President to the adoption of the twenty thousand dollar exception, there are as many equally potent why that clause in the proclamation should be abolished."

GENERAL ORDERS,
No. 93.

Mayors and commissioners having been appointed by his Excellency Governor Holden, for the towns of Wilmington, New Berne, Washington, Beaufort, Salisbury, Greensboro', Greenville, Warrenton, Graham, Fayetteville, Louisburg, Winston, Charlotta, Wilson, Lincolnton, Hillsboro', and Oxford, the troops now stationed within the limits of said towns for the preservation of order, will be withdrawn from said towns respectively, so soon as the Mayors thereof shall declare their readiness to undertake the government of the same; sufficient force however will be retained for guards for public stores and other public property, and for examination of railroad trains at the stations.

Commanding Officers, will give on request of the Mayors of towns, all necessary assistance for the preservation of order, and will see that all lawful ordinances and rules of the towns are respected by the troops of their commands.

To guard against misapprehension, which seems still to exist in the minds of some, in regard to the legal condition of freedmen, all concerned are informed that the making of ordinances or other municipal regulations, containing provisions in violation of the equality of the right of the races to personal liberty, or practices on the part of Mayors or municipal agents in violation of such right, will necessitate the resumption of exclusive military control of any city or village in which such right is so disregarded. All laws or regulations, at any time heretofore in force in such towns, restricting the personal liberty of blacks, and not equally applicable to whites, are void.

The foregoing will apply to all cities or villages not hereinbefore named, and for which municipal officers have been or may hereafter be appointed.

AMNESTY PROCLAMATION.

The terms of Pardon—Who are to be restored to citizenship and who are to be disfranchised—Those who are excluded from the Amnesty may make special application to the President for Pardon.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Whereas, the President of the United States, on the 8th day of December, A. D., 1863, and on the 29th day of March, A. D. 1864, did, with the object to suppress the existing rebellion, to induce all persons to return to their loyalty, and to restore the authority of the United States, issue proclamations offering amnesty and pardon to certain persons who had, directly, or by implication, participated in the said rebellion; 'and whereas many persons who had so engaged in said rebellion, have since the issuance of said proclamation, failed or neglected to take the benefits offered thereby; and whereas many persons who have been justly deprived of all claim to amnesty and pardon thereunder by reason of the re-participation, directly, or by implication, in said rebellion and continued hostility to the government of the United States since the date of said proclamation, now desire to apply for and obtain amnesty and pardon:

To the end therefore, that the authority of the government of the United States may be restored, and that peace order and freedom may be established, I Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do proclaim and declare that I hereby grant to all persons who have directly or indirectly participated in the existing rebellion, except as hereinafter excepted, amnesty and pardon, with restoration of all rights of property, except as to slaves, and except in cases where legal proceedings, under the laws of the United States providing for the confiscation of property of persons engaged in rebellion, have been instituted, but on the condition, nevertheless, that every such person shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation, and thenceforth keep and maintain said oath inviolate, and which oath shall be registered for permanent preservation, and shall be of the tenor and effect following, to wit:

I, ——— ———, do solemnly swear or affirm, in presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Union of the States thereunder, and that I will, in like manner, abide by and faithfully support all laws and proclamations which have been made during the existing rebellion with reference to the emancipation of slaves. So help me God.

The following classes of persons are excepted from the benefits of this proclamation:

First—All who are or shall have been pretended civil or diplomatic officers or otherwise, domestic or Foreign agents of the pretended Confederate Government.

Second—All who left judicial stations under the United States to aid the rebellion.

Third—All who shall have been military or naval officers of said pretended Confederate Government above the rank of Colonel in the army or Lieutenant in the navy.

Fourth—All who left seats in the Congress of the United States to aid the rebellion.

Fifth—All who resigned or tendered resignations of their commissions in the army or navy of the U. S. to evade duty in resisting the rebellion.

Sixth—All who have engaged in any way in treating otherwise than lawfully as prisoners of war persons found in the U. S. service, as officers, soldiers, seamen, or in other capacities.

Seventh—All persons who have been or are absent from the U. S., for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eighth—All military and naval officers in the rebel service who were educated by the government in the Military Academy at West Point, or the U. S. Naval Academy.

Ninth—All persons who held the pretended offices of Governors of States in insurrection against the United States.

Tenth—All persons who left their homes within the jurisdiction and protection of the United States and passed beyond the federal military lines into the so-called Confederate States for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eleventh—All persons who have been engaged in the destruction of the commerce of the United States upon the high seas, and all persons who have made raids into the United States from Canada, or been engaged in destroying the commerce of the United States upon the lakes and rivers that separate the British provinces from the United States.

Twelfth—All persons who, at the time when they seek to obtain the benefits hereof by taking the oath herein prescribed, are in military, naval or civil confinement or custody, or under bonds of the civil, military, or naval authorities or agents of the United States, as prisoners of war or persons detained for offences of any kind either before or after conviction.

Thirteenth—All persons who have voluntarily participated in said rebellion, and the estimated value of whose taxable property is over twenty thousand dollars.

Fourteenth—All persons who have taken the oath of amnesty as prescribed in the President's proclamation of December 8, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, or an oath of allegiance to the government of the United States since the date of said proclamation and who have not thenceforward kept and maintained the same inviolate.

Provided that special application may be made to the President for pardon by any person belonging to the excepted classes, and such clemency will be liberally extended as may be consistent with the facts of the case and the peace and dignity of the United States.

The Secretary of State will establish rules and regulations for administering and recording the said amnesty oath so as to insure its benefits to the people, and guard the government against fraud.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington the 29th day of May, in the year of our Lord 1865, and of the independence of the United States the 89th.

U. S. Christian Commission.

THE FACILITY FOR WRITING LETTERS is offered by the United States Christian Commission to every soldier, absent from home, whether Union or late Confederate.

The Commission also has a very large quantity of tracts on hand more than to satisfy the soldier and with pleasure will furnish them to the Sabbath School Superintendent of the city and the county.

Let fraternal feeling now reign when so recently fratricidal hands were uplifted.

The Commission would also call the attention of any who may be interested in suffering humanity to the one hundred and fifty who are now sick in the Field Hospital near this place, of whom six are late Confederate soldiers.

The reflex effect of alleviating suffering is not only certainly good, but it is also the source of the greatest enjoyment.

No mercenary employment possesses such advantage as the giving and exercises of sympathy towards the suffering.

So here friends it is necessary to be friendly.
